

FOREWORD

The 2010 Census of Population and Housing (2010 CPH) Report No. 4 is one of several publications designed to disseminate the results of the 2010 CPH. This report presents the barangays classified as urban, the population of each of these barangays, and the size of the urban population of cities and municipalities in the country as based on the results of the 2010 CPH conducted by the National Statistics Office (NSO) in May 2010. Urban-classified barangays based on the 2007 Census of Population are also presented in this report.

The classification of barangays into either urban or rural is based on the new definition of urban areas. This definition was approved through the NSCB Board Resolution No. 9, series of 2003. The data used for the urban-rural classification come from the 2010 Barangay Schedule (CP Form 5) which contains information about the infrastructures, facilities and amenities in the barangay, and the result of the Listing of Establishments (LE), especially data on the presence of establishments in the barangay by number of employees.

The office acknowledges with sincere gratitude and appreciation the untiring cooperation of all barangay officials, who were the key informants for the 2010 CP Form 5, for patiently providing the information on the barangay characteristics necessary for the classification of barangays into either urban or rural.
