

GENDER AND DEVELOPMENT SECTOR – Batch 2

---

Note: Metadata for the concepts for gender statistics, which are defined below, are provided in Annex BR-08-2009-01b.

1. Gender Development Index (GDI) – a composite index measuring average achievement in the three basic dimensions captured in the human development index, (i.e., a long and healthy life, knowledge, and a decent standard of living), adjusted to account inequalities between women and men. It is measured by taking the average of the same components as HDI but adjusted for gender disparities.
2. Gender Health Index (GHI) – an index which measures gender disparity in the quality of life in terms of longevity and health life. It is measured using life expectancy as indicator.
3. Gender Education Index (GEI) – an index which measures gender disparity in the quality of life in terms of access to education. It is measured through the functional literacy rate, combined net enrolment rate as indicators.
4. Gender Income Index (GII) – an index which measures gender disparity in the quality of life in terms of income. It is measured using real average per capita income as indicator.
5. Gender Disparity Index (GeDI) – a measure to illustrate whether overall human development is being shared equitably by women and men.
6. Gender Equality Ratio (GER) – a measure indicating whether women or men have more advantage in terms of development.
7. Average time spent doing unpaid housework – is the average time spent doing the following non-market activities: a) The cleaning, decoration and maintenance of the dwelling occupied by the household, including small repairs of a kind usually carried out by tenants as well as owners; b) The cleaning, servicing and repair of household durables or other goods, including vehicles used for household purposes; c) The preparation and serving of meals; d) The care, training and instruction of children; e) The care of sick, infirm or old people; and f) The transportation of members of the household or their goods.